

— S A M J R

Deck Kit

Every layout in the kit, on one canvas.

Sam Eidi · 2026-09-03

Where this goes

01

The problem

One sentence on what this section will land.

02

What we built

One sentence on what this section will land.

03

The ask

One sentence on what this section will land.

— 01

The problem

The single sentence this whole section exists to make land.

The heading is the conclusion, not the topic

One supporting sentence. If the slide needs two, one of them belongs on the next slide.

First point

Twenty words at most. The speaker says the rest; the slide is not the script.

Second point

Twenty words at most. The speaker says the rest; the slide is not the script.

Third point

Twenty words at most. The speaker says the rest; the slide is not the script.

Three numbers, each doing a different job

1240

MERCHANTS LIVE
Up from 410 in January.

98.4%

DELIVERY SUCCESS
Rolling 30 days.

$3.2M

RECOVERED REVENUE
Attributed, last 12 months.

Source: name the table, the query and the date here. Every figures slide has this line.

— GROWTH

One bar is the point, the rest are context

Source: name the table and the date range.

What it costs against what it returns

PLAN	MERCHANTS	ARPU	SHARE OF REVENUE
Free	820	$0	0%
Growth	310	$49	34%
Scale	110	$249	66%

Source: name the table and the date.

— THE PRODUCT

Show the real screen

A screenshot of the actual product is the most persuasive asset available, and it is free. Stock illustration is what a deck reaches for when it has nothing to show.

assets/screenshot.png

“The exact sentence the customer said, unedited, including the awkward part.”

Name, Role, Company

Build it in the order you say it

- First the thing happens.
- Then we notice it.
- Then the customer hears about it.
- Then the money arrives.

— THE ASK

Say the specific thing you want

The amount, the decision, the date. Then how to reach you.

Sam Eidi · email · site